The rebels have threatened his regiment, but the Colonel warned them that if they killed any of his men to avenge the insult. This American Oakes left Wheeling with a detachment which they beg the acceptance of Govfare, he would pursue them with fire and sword. The Virginia authorities have been compelled to advance specie to a railroad company to pay duties on iron at Alexandria, and afterwards a large portion of the iron was seized by the government. The safety of the tomb of Washington is said to have been guarantied by pledges from both Gen.'s Scott and Lee. The rebels are busy in organizing a strong force on the Mississippi, and it is stated that Beauregard has gone there to take charge. If this is true, it is altogether probable that he and Col. Anderson may 'meet again.'

Monday's Dispatches. A sharp engagement was commenced at Acquia Creek on Friday, and all the batteries silenced but one, when the government gunboats retired, slightly damaged. On Saturday the engagement was resumed, and the rifled cannon, which had been used on Friday on the Hill by the rebels with effect, were removed during that night to the previously silent batteries, which were rebuilt, and then opened Saturday on the three gunbeats.
